

June 30, 2015

Greystone on Hudson

Arguably the most significant new development since Conyers Farm and Tuxedo Park north of New York City is officially coming to market – Greystone on Hudson on the Irvington/Tarrytown border in NY! Manhattan buyers are flocking to the suburbs and now there is a new exclusive gated residential enclave offering NYC-style living and amenities in a suburb which boasts castles and breathtaking Hudson River views just 13 miles north of NYC.

Situated along one of Westchester's most historic corridors, and nestled between Lyndhurst Castle and the Old Croton Aqueduct Park, Greystone on Hudson will offer 20, two to five-acre estates inspired by Gilded Age mansions priced at approximately $8 to $15 million.

The 100-acre gated community combines serene country living with luxurious and convenient amenities typically reserved for Manhattan's most exclusive condominiums. Developed by Greystone Mansion Group, the first of Greystone on Hudson's timeless estates is almost complete and ready for move in.

<http://bit.ly/1LAMc7p>